A note from Professor Phil Thomas:

“I spent many years as a young scholar teaching and studying overseas, principally in the USA and Africa. Those times are indelible memories and they shaped me both as a person and as a law lecturer. It is my own life experiences that drew me into establishing the TEIC programme with the CEAIE.

“Although settled in Wales for many years I continued to travel the globe as a visiting scholar and also as an ambassador for my university law school. A couple of years ago, upon retirement, I was introduced to CEAIE and invited to recruit appropriate graduates to teach English in schools, colleges and universities in China. This was to be done independently of my university activities.

“My immediate concerns included the security and welfare of the teachers, the status of the Chinese agency and the assurance that appropriate local support would be provided for the teachers. As a frequent traveller to China and Asia I am aware of potential hazards and I was clearly of the opinion that unless I had total confidence in the Chinese partner, I would not risk my reputation nor the safety of the teachers I would be recruiting. So, before agreeing to become involved, I visited their office in Beijing.

“I was pleasantly surprised and totally satisfied with the organisation and, in particular, with the commitment of the staff. They are efficient English speakers who are keen to make the programme work for all concerned. The staff are "civil servants" employed by a non-profit making organisation affiliated to the Ministry of Education. Ms Nancy Sun is the director of this programme in China. She has excellent spoken English and is responsible for arranging placement, documentation processing, the work visa, the meet and greet arrival programme and welfare support in China. I am responsible locally for recruitment, interviewing, collection and dispatch of the required documentation to Beijing.

“Our principal concern is that of the teachers, not of profit, and this distinguishes us from other apparently similar programmes. TEIC is a small, friendly, hopefully efficient programme driven by the welfare of the teachers and the English language needs of young Chinese; it's that simple, and I think the words of our teachers speak for themselves. All the pictures that you see on this website were taken by the teachers. We are what we are and hopefully we are providing a win-win experience for all concerned.

“If you, your family or friends want to know more about the programme then please contact me either by email or phone. I will be pleased to hear from you.”

Sprachcenter Mouroum has been a successful language school since 1990. Beginning in 2008, we expanded our business to include an internship programme that gives students and recent graduates a wonderful opportunity to gain valuable on-the-job experience while living abroad.

Sprachcenter Mouroum is located in the heart of Berlin and offers Business English courses of all levels throughout the year. We also offer translation and interpreting services. Our main focus, however, is teaching English to children between the ages of three and ten years old in kindergartens and primary schools throughout the city of Berlin.

Our experienced staff offers support and guidance for our internship participants throughout the year. Our team is comprised of individuals from the U.K., Ireland, U.S.A, Canada, New Zealand, Australia, and, of course, Germany.

Language Requirements:

A proficient level of German is necessary; however, during our training period in summer we will give assistance to those wishing to improve their German skills.

Cooperation with the Erasmus Programme

Current students who are required to complete an Erasmus or Study Abroad programme are also welcome to apply. We have worked in cooperation with the Life Long Learning Erasmus Programme in the past and encourage applicants to take advantage of this program in the future.

Internship Description:

Interns will teach between 5 and 20 classes per week, dependant on their current degree status and experience.

Pay will be in the form of a monthly stipend based on the amount of weekly classes.

Accommodation and Administrative Assistance:

Sprachcenter Mouroum provides accommodation to a limited number of interns. Our staff also assists with the various administrative tasks required by the city of Berlin.
