Introduction

This module concentrates on developing and consolidating students' professional identity and formation as artists.

The aims of this module are:

1. Increase a knowledge and awareness of ideas informing contemporary curatorial practices,
2. Examine factors influencing display of artwork in public and private spaces,
3. Map contemporary gallery and exhibition spaces, public and private,
4. Demonstrate the application of practical skills in the selection and presentation of work,
5. Critically assess the presentation of art work for display.

What will I learn?

On successful completion of this module students will be able to:

- Identify a range of gallery / cultural spaces in Dublin and its environs,
- Critically assess a social-cultural space for display of contemporary artwork,
- Recognise the complexity of the art world and the issues of display,
- Collaborate with their peers in the development of exhibition ideas and approaches to display of artwork,
- Plan a small group exhibition and produce a press release for promotional purposes,
- Produce a statement that articulates their final project work,
- Locate their emerging practice within the contemporary art world.

How will I have the chance to evaluate the module?

It is important to NCAD that students inform the development of teaching and learning at NCAD. We encourage all students to communicate their concerns and their observations about their study to members of staff so that any changes can be made in a timely manner.

A student forum will be convened to gather students' comments about their study and the delivery of the programme. In addition, at the end of the Spring Trimester, students have the opportunity to complete an online evaluation of their study and experience at NCAD. These evaluation events are important to current and future students, to ensure we can enhance the delivery of programmes at NCAD.

In addition, you are invited to discuss your experience on the module with your lecturers at any point during the year. You can also relay your comments to the class student representative who will communicate your comments to the staff.
