Introduction

This module is designed to provide the support required to scope the body of work which will be completed in the 25 credit Major Project module in semester 2. It requires that the student designs a series of propositions or techniques which are tested in the course of the semester: a photographer might, for instance, explore a set of techniques or a particular visual vocabulary; a curator might develop a series of propositions for curatorial project/s. By the end of the module, students will have a clear blueprint for practice in semester 2. As 'experiments', the students are not expected to have produced final or complete work.

What will I learn?

On successful completion of this module students will be able to:

1. scope a body of work which will meet the requirements of the Major Project module;
2. conduct a series of tests or experiments with materials or ideas;
3. reflect critically on the scale, scope and challenge of the work being proposed for the Major Project module.

Module content

The module combines tutorials, crits and lectures. It is structured as following:

- i. by week 4, the student should have achieved a clear sense of the nature of the work that they propose completing in the course of the year. This will be outlined a proposal (text) submitted to their supervisor. This is ungraded but formative feedback will be provided. This proposal plays an important role in establishing an appropriate level of intellectual challenge for a Major Practice Project (PGVC2004) as well as its appropriate form. Students who propose overly complex or an underweight project will be guided on the basis of this document.
- ii. between week 4 and week 12, the student will be conducting the 'experiments' outlined above.
- iii. In c. week 12, all ACW MFA will present their work in a day-long crit. The crit will involve one or two invited respondents with broad expertise in the fields of contemporary art / curation / art criticism. The crit will be public in as far as the ACW teaching team, ACW first year students and external respondents will contribute to the discussion.
- iv. Following the crit, the students will be required to submit a portfolio (including text and images) in which they present their work to date and critical reflections on the work to be conducted in semester 2. The precise nature of the portfolio will be determined by the student and supporting tutor. The portfolio is likely to include critical self-reflection following the feedback in the crit.

How will I learn?

The module is supported by at least three one-to-one tutorials with a nominated tutor (either from the ACW teaching team or from other areas of the College if particular supporting expertise is needed). They will participate in a 'crit' featuring at least one external respondent. Students will participate in Contemporary Art Practices lectures classes provided as part of the ACW curriculum on a two year cycle. Featuring diverse perspectives on contemporary art practice, these lectures provide a vein of critical thinking which will aid the preparation of the proposal and the material presented in the crit. Students will not be required to submit the essay completed by ACW MA students.

Opportunities will be provided during or at the end of the autumn Trimester to students who do not complete all assessments that trimester.

When and where is this module offered?
Autumn trimester year 2 / various sites on NCAD Campus.
How will I have the chance to evaluate the module?
It is important to NCAD that students inform the development of teaching and learning at NCAD. We encourage all students to communicate their concerns and their observations about their study to members of staff so that any changes can be made in a timely manner. About two-thirds of the way through the trimester, a student forum will be convened to gather students' comments about their study and the delivery of the programme. In addition, at the end of Trimester 2, students have the opportunity to complete an online evaluation of their study and experience at NCAD. These evaluation events are important to current and future students, to ensure we can enhance the delivery of programmes at NCAD.

In addition, you are invited to discuss your experience on the module with your lecturers at any point during the year. You can also relay your comments to the class student representative who will communicate your comments to the staff.
